

Where are the labs? Where can I print?

CSIL

Computer Science Instructional Labs
<http://csil.cs.uiuc.edu/>

Siebel Center lower level

All CS students can login using their AD passwords.

CSIL uses the EWS printing system. The print queues are named `ss_csil_0216` and `ds_csil_0216`.

Engineering students get 300 free pages of black & white printing per semester.

Color printing is available and costs 4 b&w pages.

EWS

Engineering Workstations
<http://ews.uiuc.edu/>

Engineering campus (DCL, Grainger, & more)

Windows and Linux labs for Engineering college students. (Many CS core classes use EWS labs.)

Basic instructions for printing:

All of these systems allow printing from laptops or remote systems. See their documentation for specific instructions.

- 1) Print to the desired printer name for your lab or location.
  - 2) Visit a "release station" (either a dedicated computer near the printer, or a website) to authorize the printing.
  - 3) Collect your printout.
- Almost all labs have attendants if you need help.

Library Workstations

Public Access Computers
<http://www.library.uiuc.edu/>

All university libraries (Grainger, Undergrad)

Browse library resources & more

10¢ per black & white page
Variable rates for color printing

Charges student account or cash/pre-paid options available

CITES and Housing Labs (Instructional Computing Services, or ICS)

Union, English Bldg, Oregon and Nevada St.,
University Housing residence halls

Windows and MacOS labs for all students and staff. Login with your CITES password.
(Probably the same as your AD or Express password.)

Housing residents pay 5¢ b&w laser printing, 25¢ for color laser printing.

CITES ICS labs are poorly documented on the web, so I don't know anything about their charges. Sorry.
